Services

My fundraising/event/marketing firm began nearly 25 years ago. I focus on the space between nonprofits and industry partners; coach organizations to align vision and brand with mission; and promote outcomes of increased revenue and improved visibility through partnerships and special events. I produce major celebrations with fundraising and event components and build industry partnerships that substantially increase income for institutions.

People are barraged by marketing campaigns for worthy causes. How do you grab their attention, get your message across, and stir the emotions that motivate them to take action?

To stand out from the crowd, your campaign needs great writing and design, a smart strategy, and distinctive branding to hold it all together. I provide expert creative services that will help your organization connect with potential and current supporters. Each engagement is tailored to fit your needs and your budget — whether it's a few hours for a quick editing job or a long-term project to lead your team in producing a major campaign.
