

STRING OF DOLPHINS

SENECIO PEREGRINUS

Very rare string succulent that grows dolphin-shaped leaves along cascading stems

Blooms small white flowers in summer

Needs a good soak every 10 days, or whenever the soil is completely dry

Loves indirect sunlight, or bright shade if outdoors

Easily propagated by cuttings, just prune off a stem and nestle it in moist cactus soil, spraying once every couple days

Can be toxic - keep away from curious pets and kiddos
