Groups Questions

1. Did you ever set New Year resolutions or annual goals? Any this year?
2. How well do you think Americans notice brokenness? Why might that be?
3. When you notice things that aren't right (community, country, world), what's your natural reaction? Blame? Ignore? Other?
4. What's the first thing Nehemiah did when his heart was broken? Why is this critical? Practically speaking, what can we learn from this?
5. Why do New Year resolutions and goals tend to focus more on us than the world around us?
6. So, is there anything that breaks your heart? No matter how you answer it, what's your next step?
