Groups Questions

1. Do you ever daydream about a life in which you don't have to answer to anyone—your boss, your parents, your spouse, the IRS? Why is that a happy daydream?
2. As you look around the cultural landscape, what consequences do you see of people doing what they want, when they want, with whom they want?
3. In your own life, when have you seen or experienced bad consequences from people doing what was right in their own eyes?
4. Think about a time in your life when you chose to do what was right in your own eyes. In what ways did it hurt you, the people with you, the people who care about you, or the people coming after you?
5. During the message, Jason said that the thing that has mastered you—debt, addiction, cycles of bad behavior—began as an expression of your freedom. How have you seen this dynamic at work in your life? What do you think it would take to break that thing's mastery over you?
6. If you were God, how would you respond to a culture, a nation, or an individual characterized by an attitude of what I want, when I want it, with whom I want?
7. This story was a dark story with no heroes. In what ways does it point it to Jesus?
