"CLIMATE CHANGE" WITH KATHARINE HAYHOE AND RICHARD LYONS

Dr. Katharine Hayhoe is both an atmospheric scientist and an evangelical Christian. How does that work out for her? Come and hear how she finds her two passions complement each other. She will be speaking, along with Rev. Dr. Richard Lyons, at Granada Hills Presbyterian Church, Sunday, April 8 at 12:30 PM. Lunch will be offered.

Dr. Hayhoe is also a pastor's wife, professor, and co-author with her husband, Andrew Farley, of A Climate for Change: Global Warming Facts for Faith-Based Decisions. She is a warm, engaging scientist who has a heart for explaining – especially to skeptics – the ways in which climate change threatens the people and things we all value.

Don't miss this important opportunity to learn and discuss how climate change is scientifically proven, and why it should matter theologically to all Christians.

If you can help arrange carpools to Katharine and Rick's program, "Karpools to Katharine," please contact Judy Trumbo at jktrumbo@gmail.com.

ATTENTION ALL FORMER NAVIGATORS! SAVE THE DATE: JUNE 2

If you were ever a member of the LCPC Navigators fellowship group, mark June 2 at 4:00 PM on your calendar. A reunion is in the works! Plans include dinner (provided) and good times reminiscing with old friends.

Reservations will be required, so if you'd like to jump in early, give a call to Marcia Randis at (818) 353-8056, Linda Winfield at (818) 248-0946 or Pat Chambers at (818) 957-8710.

Spread the word, and hope to see everyone there!

UPDATE FROM DANIEL AND MARIE

Dear Friends,

My older brother Nate passed away on January 29 after battling a rare cancer. He was just 32 years old. Daniel and I, along with all my siblings, were thankful to be with him in his last days in Wisconsin.

This has been such a difficult season. I have felt tired and weighed down with grief. I also endured the flu, and had other nights of fevers and days of sickness. And yet, even in the depths, I have experienced love and gentle care from God, friends, and family.

STUDENT NEWS

The student leaders at Berklee and New England Conservatory have continued to step up to lead when I was less available on campus. I am so proud of them!

England Conservatory students who came to Bible study this year. They are inviting four of the Christian students to step into greater boldness in sharing the gospel in words and actions on campus. Pray with these conversations, and the invitations being made!

John (left) is a freshman in the international student Bible study led by Lucas (right). John has been praying for many of his friends to know Jesus, and invited three of them to Bible study in the past two weeks. John is also feeling an invitation from God to be patient, and to trust that God's doing a good work in his friends. Join John as he prays for his friends to take steps toward Jesus.

The four Bible studies at Berklee and New England Conservatory are continuing to grow! They are filled with Christian students who are ready to begin living their faith in a more outward way. This is an exciting shift, and is truly an incredible work of God. In the past, students have felt a lot of fear that prevents them from taking action, and

Dear friends,
Our church family is friendly, no question about it. I noticed that immediately when I visited LCPC as a pastoral candidate. We experience it during worship at the greeting time. The second I invite you to reach out to you neighbors in the pews, the Sanctuary erupts with lively conversation. One of my great challenges as your pastor is to get you to stop talking so we can continue the service!

And one of our great challenges as a congregation is to make sure every new person is welcomed and included. To do that, we sometimes need to put on hold our conversation time with our friends and go out of our way to greet the newcomer. More to the point, we need to take note of those who are new (or who don't seem to be "connected") and take it upon ourselves to reach out to them.

God has blessed some people with the outreach gene. Darrell and Michelle Fernandez are stellar examples. Several months ago they volunteered to arrive at church early every Sunday they're in town just so they can greet people in the Narthex. Not only do they greet everyone with a smile and a "Let us know if we can help you," they also memorize visitors' names so they can greet them by name if they return.

Most of us don't have that "sunshiny" outreach gene, but even the introverts among us (and there are tons of them at LCPC) can be extremely effective in helping newcomers feel welcome. I know of at least two people in our church, one of whom is an unqualified introvert, who purposely sit towards the back of the Sanctuary on Sunday just so they can take note of the people they don't know. They head straight for them at the greeting time, and they look for them and try to engage them in conversation at our "Party in the Breeze-way" between services.

Over the past few years, I've worshipped several times with the Calvary Chapel congregation in Rosarito, Mexico. They, too, are friendly people. And you can tell from the moment you exit your vehicle in their gravel parking lot that the whole church family has been trained for outreach. Greeters – usually three or four of them – welcome you before you pass through the doorway into their main courtyard. They ask if you need any assistance in finding coffee or a good seat. More importantly, you're welcomed at Calvary Chapel Rosarito by many other people who have no official function, but who clearly see the importance of welcoming visitors and strangers.

My experience at CCR reinforces a lesson that every church needs to embrace – even an exceptionally friendly one like LCPC. The lesson is that effective outreach to newcomers only happens at churches that pursue it as a deliberate strategy. It's not enough to recognize the value of being warm and friendly. The whole church family has to embrace outreach to new people as a ministry of love.

We all know the importance of first impressions. Think what it would feel like to visit a church where the people all seem to know and love each other, but where, over the course of your two-hour visit, no one welcomed you, or smiled at you, or asked you your name.

On the other hand, think what it would feel like to visit a church where the people all seem to know and love each other, and where, by the time you headed to your car, you were greeted and welcomed by a dozen people. And not because it was their 'job,' but because they seemed genuinely interested in getting to know you.

We are a wonderfully warm and friendly church and many visitors sense that the second they come into the sanctuary. But we can do an even better job by embracing outreach as a calling and by putting ourselves in the place of the person arriving at LCPC for the very first time.

Remember the words of Jesus to those who were blessed by the Father: "I was a stranger and you welcomed me."

Love and good cheer,
Andy Wilson

helping others know Jesus was a low priority. With some of the major barriers removed, the student leaders are now getting to encourage and help these Christian students welcome their friends to know God.

DIAPERS, TRUCKS, AND BEDTIMES, OH MY!

Daniel and I became officially certified foster parents three weeks ago. We are glad to be offering our home to do overnight care for children coming from turbulent situations so the social workers have time to find a more stable living situation for them. Nine kids have stayed with us already, from babies to 17-year-olds!

I am thoroughly enjoying the process of navigating the unknowns and spontaneity of this journey. We're running last-minute errands to Target many nights (and I am still completely intimidated by the choices in the diaper aisles). Our community has played an incredible role helping us love the kids in our home. They've providing quick advice like what size diaper I should buy, sharing clothes and toys, and praying for us each day! We couldn't do this without the amazing support from our friends.

PLEASE PRAY FOR:

- The Christian students in each Bible study who are taking new steps to share about Jesus with their friends.
- Kevonna and Robyn inviting the four students to share the gospel with boldness at New England Conservatory.
- John's friends to take steps toward Jesus.
- Me and my family as we continue grieving the death of my brother Nate.
- Daniel as he continues catching up on schoolwork after he missed the first week of classes while we were with family.

THANK YOU

Your prayers and support make this work possible! We are so grateful for your partnership.

Blessings
Daniel & Marie

ABIDE

STUDENT MINISTRIES

All the ice cream you can eat! Singing awesome songs until you lose your voice. Playing insane games that make you question if you will survive after it's over. Summer camp is made up of this and so, so, so much more!

When I look back at the days I had at summer camp during my time at ABIDE, I just can't help from smiling. Camp is much more than just a week off from the hectic La Crescenta life, or a place to goof off with your buddies. Summer camp at Mount Hermon or Campus by the Sea is a sanctuary that allows kids to develop relationships with their friends and most importantly our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Now more than ever do kids need somewhere to be who they were made to be and understand the incredible life that God has called them to live.

We are blessed this year to be taking the most kids we have ever taken to summer camp! We are so excited to see what God does during our students' time there and see what God places on their hearts. We are overwhelmed with the amount of support that you, our church family, gives to our students and we are so grateful for each and every one of you.

One of the ways that our students are supported is through donations and fundraising for our biennial event, Phantom of the Auction. Phantom plays such an important role in sending

CFC FAITH UPDATE

We will spend the month of April looking at the stories in the Bible that happen after Jesus' resurrection but before His ascent into Heaven. While the period of time between these two momentous events is only 40 days, a lot happened! One of my favorite lessons focuses on Jesus making his friends some breakfast on the beach and then encouraging Peter to love and care for others. That week, we will enjoy some cooking activities. Don't worry – I'll get some tips from Robert before then!

our kids to camp by reducing the price of camp for each kid and sending kids who really need Jesus in their life to camp for a low price when they can't afford it at the time. We welcome any generous donation you would like to gift us for this event and we just want to thank you ahead of time for your support and love for our students!

If you have any questions about the event, how you could donate items, or how you can help at all, please contact Josh at: (909) 362-2685 or email him at: joshuadavid.horton@gmail.com

This month, we will be again be holding our annual Big Picture Weekend, a short retreat where we focus on how to live in godly relationships with one another. We talk about friendship, our relationships with our family, romantic relationships, and how our relationship with our Heavenly Father dictates and frames all of those! "BPW" shows students not just how to maintain godly relationships, but maybe even more importantly – why God calls us to holy relationship with Him and each other. Please pray for us and our students, the 3rd weekend in April, as we head up into the mountains to learn about love! If you or your student would like to attend BPW, please email joshuadavid.horton@gmail.com.

Thank you again for your support.

LEE'S LATEST

We are beginning a sermon series after Easter called "Overflow." It's an in-depth meditation on the 23rd Psalm. What would it be like to really trust God in every moment? How would your life be different if you truly lived a life free of concern and worry? We often think of God as tightfisted – giving us just barely enough to get by, holding back blessings to teach us a lesson or build our character. But Jesus tells us of a God who lavishes gifts on his children, giving not sparingly but abundantly – even extravagantly. Jesus' Father cares deeply for the birds of the air, and he cares even more for us: his children.

On April 4 at PEAK I will begin a 4-week course that follows our sermon series on Psalm 23. We will try to learn from Jesus what it means to live a life full of God's blessing.

ALL-CHURCH WORK DAY

Come one – come all – to help at the All-Church Work Day, Saturday, April 14, from 8:00 AM – 1:00 PM! Even an hour of your time will be a big help. Muscle is needed to clean out the lower parking bays of plywood platforms and mahogany pews. Cleaning and polishing the Sanctuary pews is on the list along with weeding, planting beds, and sorting through closets. Students can earn credits toward future camps and mission trips. Look for signups in the Breezeway on Sunday, April 8, and at the PEAK dinner on April 11.

children's Ministries

by Ashley Pollock

April of 2018 is starting off with my favorite day of the year – Easter! What better way to begin a month than with celebrating the most amazing victory of all time? This year, I was reading to my almost 3-year-old daughter when she noticed the shape of a cross in her book. “This?” She pointed. “That’s a cross,” I said. “A cross – like what Jesus died on.” “Why did He die?” She asked.

Even after working at a church for almost a decade, this is not an easy question to answer in 3-year-old vernacular, especially right before bed time when she has about a 30-second attention span. “He died for people’s bad choice not to follow God. He died to save people so that we can be close to God.” Silence.

It was a complicated subject and I wanted to go on, but Charlie’s eyelids looked heavy and she was already starting to turn the page. So I just said:

“But remember, He didn’t stay dead. He rose from the dead and came back to life.” Charlie’s eyes got wide and she put down the book. She started yelling, “Yay Jesus! Yay Jesus!” and pumping her little fist.

Now, no matter how deep or shallow Charlie’s understanding of atonement . . . whether or not she is able to recognize her own disobedience . . . even if she doesn’t remember tomorrow what she learned tonight . . . in that moment she knew exciting news when she heard it. And in that moment, I found myself getting excited, too. The greatest story ever told is a story that I have read over and over.

I know what is coming as I get to the end of the book of Matthew. But when I read it with Charlie, it’s like the good news becomes new news again and I am reminded of just how amazing this true story is. Goodness triumphs over Evil. Life triumphs over death. Nothing could stop the love of God. That is true every moment of every day of every year and if that isn’t reason to say, “Yay Jesus! Yay Jesus!” then I don’t know what is.

Following Easter, Children’s Ministries will be beginning the spring session of our 5th and 6th grade Bible study. I am so excited to start this up again on Monday afternoons from 4:00 -5:00 PM. This year, my co-leader will be none other than Josh Horton. Our first meeting takes place on Monday, April 2, in the Library and the study will run for six weeks. If you have or know a child in 5th or 6th grade, please encourage them to come!

Also in April, Children’s Ministries will be volunteering at Children’s Hunger Fund for the first time this year. We will meet in the church parking lot at 8:30 AM on Saturday, April 28, and head over to the Sylmar warehouse to pack food. We will return to LCPC around 11:30 AM. This is always a fun time and a simple way to serve a child in need with your child! Children in 2nd grade and older can come by themselves but adults are always welcome.

I look forward to starting off the month with all of you as we celebrate the joy of Easter and to continuing to live out that joy in the weeks that follow.

In Christ,
Ashley Pollock

CONVERSATIONS IN THE GARDEN

Join the Conversations! We meet once or twice a month on Sunday afternoons at the home of Nancy Coler to discuss the week’s sermon in a peaceful and relaxed atmosphere. Both services are represented and new friendships are being formed. All are welcome!

This month we’ll meet on April 8. Arrive at 4:30 PM, and we’ll be finished by 6:00 PM. For more information, please call Nancy at (626) 755-1880.

As you read this, Easter will (probably) have been celebrated with joy and thanksgiving for the amazing love shown to us by our Father in the death and resurrection of Jesus. Lent has been a journey of reflection for me and I realize I am so far from perfect and yet, the love of the Father has no limits. I hope that you too, have grown in the Spirit and in faith.

We Deacons continue to share our faith by reaching out to our church community through cards, phone calls, and personal visits as well as through our food pantry and assistance in covering utility bills and providing food stuffs that do not have to be cooked for those who have no access to kitchens.

We would like to request your assistance in donating sympathy, get well, thinking of you, or similar cards so that we can continue to let those who are grieving, sad, or lonely know that they are not alone and that there are folks who care about them and want them to know the love of the Father is with them always.

If you know of anyone in our community who is in need of assistance, please contact Nancy Thomas in the office and she will forward any requests to Deacons.

Look for your friendly Deacons at church. We will be wearing name tags so we should be easy to identify and we are here to serve.

In Christ’s Service,
Kerry Milbrodt

He is Risen! He is Risen Indeed! We had such a meaningful Lenten season. Thank you to all our friends who shared their personal journeys during the “Everyone has a Story” sermon series. We have some pretty inspiring people at this church. It’s not easy to get up in front of everyone and speak so candidly! I know we all learned something from each of them.

We are excited that the LCPC Good Friday Boulder made an appearance this year! Nothing makes an Easter statement in this community quite like transforming our Sanctuary entrance into Jesus’ tomb. Thank you to all the strong men who worked hard to get it in place. It’s no easy task!

We hope you checked out the campfire vigil after the Good Friday service. It’s a perfect way to continue reflecting on Good Friday and spend some meaningful time together. We are grateful for all the groups who led songs, prayers and devotions.

Our Easter services were a glorious morning of celebration and worship with beautiful music from our Praise Band, Cathedral Choir, brass ensemble, Cathedral Bells and our adorable Children’s Choir.

Our youth had a fantastic and productive time on the CASA Mission trip last week. We had a team of 42 adults and students from LCPC and Glendale Presbyterian Church who headed down to Rosarito, Mexico. They constructed retaining walls and prepared the orphanage side lots for upcoming work. They also found time to sample the local cuisine, race around in go-carts, and have a lively beach party with children from another local orphanage. I’d say the 1st CASA youth mission trip was a great success!

The CASA Rummage sale raised $1,700 for this trip. Thank you to Jerry White, Terry Long, Jim and Marvene Larson, Austin Granier, Josh, and a whole slew of youth helpers who organized and worked the sale.

Save the date for our next mission trip south of the border – Men’s Mission Mexico – which will be May 4-6 just outside of Tijuana. Contact Greg Wolflick to sign up and to get all the details, (818) 957-1032.

Thank you to Dennis Fernandez, Austin Granier, Carleigh Fernandez and Ashley Pollock for organizing and helping at Parent’s Night Out. They raised more than two months of support for Luis and Yasmine, our sponsored Compassion children. They’re planning another PNO this summer, so be watching for that date!

Children’s Ministries will be starting the Spring 5th/6th grade Bible Study on April 2, led by Ashley and Josh on Mondays from 4:00 – 5:00 PM in the Library (next to Ashley’s office) We hope your tweens can join them for this fun time of exploring the Bible together.

Our extraordinarily talented Youth Praise Band will be leading worship April 8 during first service. You won’t want to miss that! One of our seniors, Emily Perkins, is planning the Abide sermon series this month on the Holy Spirit. She also preaching twice down in the Student Center to help her decide what kind of ministry she wants to pursue and study in college. We know you’ll be a light and inspiration in all you do Emily!

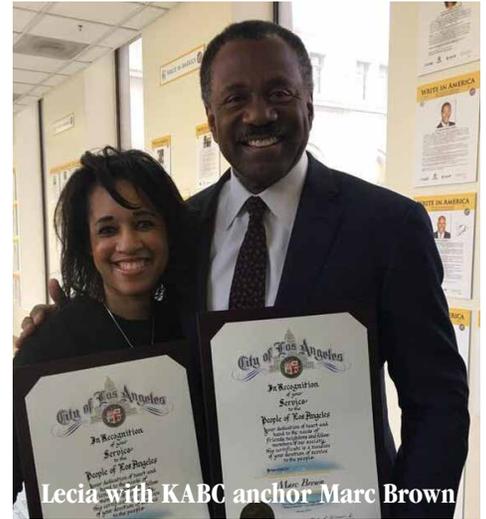

Put on your work clothes and come help out at the All-Church Work Day, Saturday April 14 from 8:00 AM – 1:00 PM. The main focus will be clearing out the underground garage which has become “The Land of Misfit Items.” No skill is needed – just willing volunteers! Youth helpers will get credit toward the DR Mission trip. The more people that come, the quicker it will get done!

That evening, Fellowship Ministry is hosting a Progressive Dinner Party from 5:00 – 9:30 PM. All adults are invited to come share a delicious 3-course meal at three different homes and socialize with new and old friends. Space is limited to 40 people, so get your tickets early! Tickets are $12 and will be on sale in the Breezeway between Sunday services starting March 25. Contact Michele Fernandez for more info at: fern7@sbcglobal.net.

It’s been way too long since we’ve had a wild and crazy Bunco Night at the Wolflick home, so we’re bringing it back on Friday April 27. All adults are invited to this fun (and loud) evening of everyone’s favorite dice game. RSVP to: rmwolf@earthlink.net. Again space is limited, so sign up soon. Desserts to share are welcomed!

Congratulations to Phil and Lecia Van Horn who are both celebrating exciting writing accomplishments! Lecia was honored by the City of Los Angeles during Black History month in their “Write in America” gallery for her years of service to the people of Los Angeles as a journalist for ABC7 and many other news stations. Phil recently co-authored a book with Pete McKen- zie, Cracking the Man Code: How You Can Take Bold Steps Toward Becoming a New Man Of God Today. Phil and Pete are active in the men’s ministry group Influencers West. You can pick up your copy of their new book on Amazon. We are so proud of both our Van Horns!

CFC got to spend a day of their spring break zipping around the Rose Bowl on scooters, bikes, and skateboards for Wheel Day! How fun is that? We should have all taken the day off and joined them on this special occasion!

CFC is looking for Dr. Seuss books or any other Dr. Seuss-inspired items. If you have any you’d like to donate, you can drop them off in the CFC office. “Pat in the Hat” would like that!

See you next month!

CFC Heartbeat

Spring has sprung! The days are longer and warmer and your kids are most likely having a growth spurt. The growth will not only be in their physical body, but also in their minds and activity levels as well. It doesn't seem to matter what age of the child. Spring activates all parts of a child's growth. While I am not a doctor or scientist, my years of experience tell me it's true.

Our sweet toddlers start to have opinions about lots of things that didn't used to matter. The 2-year-olds are growing out of clothes at an unbelievable rate. The 3-year-olds no longer want to wear what you laid out, but have developed a style and the 4-year-olds just seem to get louder and are outsmarting us daily. With the excitement of heading to Kindergarten the world is theirs for the taking. Our school age children are thinking of summer and the end of school. As of April 1, only 10 weeks left of this school year!

It can be a trying time for parents and teachers adjusting to these changes. What worked in the past as discipline with a child may no longer have an effect. Staying true to helping kids be responsible for choices and behaviors will take you through all the years ahead of you. Remember that using as few words as possible helps to tame the defiant child. Respond to "You can't make me" with "I love you too much to argue." It's easy to raise our voice, lecture or threaten, but this only pulls you into an argument. Let them know that "I am going to have to do something about this."

Give yourself time to think of the appropriate response. You really don't have to do it immediately. If they can remember you promised them ice cream, they can remember why they are getting a consequence. Make it is a consequence you will follow through on. Not following through only teaches your child to ignore your requests. Use empathy first, "This is so sad." Also give requests in a positive way, "Feel free to go play as soon as your homework is done." All of these phrases will help as your child grows. Remember you are raising future adults. Let's make them good ones.

Summer Program

Our Summer will begin on June 11. This will be the first day of Summer Day Camp, children that are moving classes will be in their new classroom that day. It is our plan to have new classes posted by May 1 as well as new tuition rates. We hope that you will plan now to attend the parent meeting on May 21 so that you can meet your child's new teacher and get your questions answered. This is an important parent meeting for all classes including Day Camp. Mark it on your calendar now.

Playtime

Tip 7. There's a lot to learn about play. There's a lot written on children and play. From time to time I try to post articles on our Facebook page about play. David Elkind's book The Power of Play is also a great resource. More and more researchers are confirming what early childhood professionals have known in our hearts and minds, that play, created by the children themselves, is important. They need time and space to play.

The Center for Children was one of the first centers in the area to open an Infant/Toddler program in 1975. The program only enrolled two children at the time. After several years it was determined that it was not a viable program and was closed. It re-opened in 1988. Children six weeks—two years were all in the upstairs room. The front play yard was constructed and the napping room was added. Enrollment took off and the downstairs classroom was added.

This program now consistently has our longest waiting list. I often get a shocked look when I say that we take children at six weeks. I tell everyone that no parent, mom or dad, does that easily. It is our job to make that transition as tranquil as possible.

Many things have changed in this program over the years. We have removed all high chairs and swings so that no baby/toddler can be strapped into anything. Teachers interact with the children throughout the day. We have several different light sources so that it can change throughout the day and exercise little eyes. Our staff is trained in primary care giving which means that babies and toddlers have one staff member they are attached to who does the majority of care giving to that child. Seeing the babies grow from crawlers to walkers to runners is a great part of this job!

Signing In and Out

Did you know we can get fined if your child is not signed in and out each day? We need a legal signature each time and the time recorded. The fine can be up to $1,000. Many schools are going to a policy to hold children in the office until a parent can return to sign in a child. Other are charging for missed signatures. We don't want to do any of those things. Please help us by signing in and out properly each day.

Tax Invoices

If you still need your tax invoice for 2017, you may email CFCteri@att.net to have one sent to you.

Important Calendar Change

New regulations about first-aid training require us to offer a more intensive training every two years. Due to this additional instruction and other policies and procedures that we need to review, the CFC will be closed Thursday and Friday, June 7 and 8. This will allow us time to refresh our skills and get the classrooms ready for the new year. Please plan ahead for these two days.

Tuition Credit

We want to remind parents that our tuition credit program is still in effect. If a new family enrolls their child in our program and list you as the person that recommended the center to them, their registration fee will be applied to your tuition. This is a great way for you to earn some tuition money and a fabulous way to get our name out in the community.

Don't forget, we offer both a full day program for children infants through pre-K, and a school age program. Our Summer Day Camp focuses on getting children to interact with each other and the world. No screen time for them! Don't forget to register your children also. If we haven't heard from you we assume you will not be back. We have started to fill our classrooms from the wait list.

GUSD Closure

GUSD will be closed on April 24, but the CFC will be open all day for all students.

WORSHIP SCHEDULE FOR APRIL

NEW SONG WORSHIP (CONTEMPORARY), SUNDAYS AT 9:00 AM
SERVICE OF PRAISE (CLASSIC), SUNDAYS AT 11:00 AM

After Easter we begin a 6-week sermon series, "Overflow: Living Psalm 23."

What if you could experience a life in which you were never in need? A joyful life that knows no fear or fluster, no anxiety or angst? What if you could discover what so many have spent so much time, money and energy trying to possess? In a word, What if you could be content? Does that sound impossible? Jesus promises contentment to those who walk with him. If we can learn to trust God to care for us in every circumstance, our lives will OVERFLOW with his blessings.

April 1 Easter Sunday Message by Andy Wilson "Joy in the Morning!"

At the Contemporary service (9:00 AM), the Praise Band will help us celebrate New Life with fresh new songs. The Classic/Blended service (11:00 AM) will feature stirring music by the Cathedral Choir with brass ensemble accompaniment.
