Tuesday of the Third
Week of Easter

Good morning!

We celebrate Saint Anselm. We read Acts 7:51-8:1, Psalm 31, and John 6:30-35. Stephen is stoned to death because of his faith and trust in Jesus. Stephen responds with faith as we are called to do, so as not to give in to war and destruction that adds violence to our world. Jesus offers himself as "The bread of life, whoever comes to me will never hunger, and whoever believes in me will never thirst." Jesus feeds us with food and drink for the soul. People have laid down their cloaks at the feet of a young man named Saul. A new chapter begins. Deception and false truths influence our world. Jesus offers us truth and peace. When we turn to Jesus in prayer, we find peace of mind and heart. We are strengthened in faith and the Holy Spirit. We come to a deeper understanding of what truth, justice, and mercy mean. These days, invoke the Holy Spirit to infuse in all the power of God's love and mercy.

Peace,

"Into your hands, O Lord, I commend my spirit, Alleluia!"
