Friday of the First Week
in Ordinary Time

Good morning!

We celebrate Saint Hilary. Our readings come from Hebrews 4:1-5, 11, Psalm 78, and Mark 2:1-12. Would not one be surprised as they heard the roof being broken and saw a stretcher being lowered? We all need these courageous or creative types of friends. What does entering into God's rest look like for you? If God rested on the seventh day, should we not too? We can be creative with that rest and know that we will not fall into disobedience. May you find renewed life in Jesus and resting in God this weekend. Hopefully your roof will be fine, but know you can rise, pick up your mat, and go home. Happy weekend. I will be traveling next week on a Civil Rights Pilgrimage so I will not be sending my reflections unless time allows. Happy week!

Peace,

RevKev
