

Friday, March 3, 2023
Friday of the
First Week in Lent

Good morning!

We celebrate Saint Katherine Drexel. We read Ezekiel 18:21-28, Psalm 130, and Matthew 5:20-26. Are you ready to reconcile your difference with others? Ezekiel invokes us to turn away from sin and wickedness and live according to God's statutes. Conversion takes a while to have a long-term effect. For Matthew, the end goal of repentance and penance is reconciliation. Today our focus is on our relationship with our brothers and sisters in faith. If we can make right who we have wronged or who has wronged us we are on the road to holiness. Think about it. To be freed from all disagreements, bitterness, disappointment, hurt, or whatever else might be weighing you down? How would that feel? That is what we call life.

Peace,

RevKev

"If you, O Lord, mark iniquities, who can stand?"

<http://www.bible.usccb.org/>