

Tuesday, July 11, 2023
Tuesday of the Fourteenth
Week in Ordinary Time

Good morning!

We celebrate Saint Benedict. We read Genesis 32:23-33, Psalm 17, and Matthew 9:32-38. Sometimes wrestling with God is a good thing. As we wrestle with God we also wrestle with ourselves as we listen to where and what God is calling us to do in life. As Jesus went around to all towns and villages, his heart was moved with pity because he saw how troubled and abandoned they felt, like sheep without a shepherd. Jesus said to his disciples, "The harvest is abundant but the laborers are few; so ask the master of the harvest to send out laborers for his harvest." As we ask and pray, how is God calling you to be a laborer? With whom will you need to wrestle with, God or yourself?

Peace,

RevKev

"In justice, I shall behold your face, O Lord."

<http://www.bible.usccb.org/>