

Monday, July 24, 2023
Monday of the Sixteenth
Week in Ordinary Time

Good morning!

We celebrate Saint Sharbel Makhlouf. We read Exodus 14:5-18, Exodus 15:1-6, and Matthew 12:38-42. Are there risks we must take this week to know and seek God more intimately in our lives? Is there a freedom that awaits us that we cannot see? In Jesus, we have faith and hope. We need no other sign of God's love and presence than to look at a crucifix or hold Jesus in our hearts. We seek like the queen of the south, we listen like the people of Nineveh, and we follow Jesus like Moses listened to God. In this final week of July, what are we being asked to do? Are we open to being led and trusting God will provide? There is hope, faith, and love.

Peace,

RevKev

"Let us sing to the Lord; he has covered himself in glory."

<http://www.bible.usccb.org/>