Tuesday of the Thirtieth
Week in Ordinary Time

Good morning!

We read Romans 8:18-25, Psalm 126, and Luke 13:18-21. We have hope in something we cannot see. Because of this, we have the endurance to live our lives through growing pains as we share in the freedom of God's children. The seed of faith planted within us grows and attaches itself to every part of our lives. Jesus, using the images of the mustard seed and yeast to describe the Kingdom of God, says that the Kingdom of God is found in the ordinary. Look around and know that there is hope that we cannot see growing in our midst. It is growing in others and in the culture around us. We can endure and will endure when there is hope.

Peace,

RevKev

"The Lord has done marvels for us."
