

WELCOME

Anna Jarvis is recorded as being the first to suggest a national observance annually for mothers. She wanted this because of her own love, adoration, and respect for her own mother. So profound was the impact of her mother, that Anna Jarvis wanted her mom to be remembered and honored.

What kinds of things go into that kind of love and admiration? Does it say more about the mom, or the daughter?

Some time ago at a grocery store, a young mother was considering which cans of vegetables she could buy. Her little son was in the cart, reached out and grabbed a can of asparagus off the shelf. "Mommy! Let's get this one!" though not really understanding what he was holding. But the mother smiled and said, "Oooo, honey, I love asparagus, but it's just too expensive."

Fast forward to Christmas, and the six-year old boy grabbed a small but heavy present that he had clearly wrapped himself. "Open this one, Mommy!"

The mother unwrapped it to behold a can of asparagus. Grinning from ear to ear the boy said, "I saved my allowance for the whole year to get you that!"

It's the devotion, care, nurture, attention, patience, affection, and consideration that a woman gives that makes her stand out. Her children love her. Her husband blesses her. And the earth is blessed. I'm glad Ms. Jarvis wanted to honor her mom because I want to honor my mom, and the mother of my children, and all moms everywhere. We are who we are because of your dedication to our success.

Welcome to Springdale Adventist Fellowship, where today, we honor the women in our lives who are making our lives, our homes, and our church a better place.

»» SERMON SERIES

There is a phenomenon that continues to grow in almost every country of the world: It's called the Coffee Shop. What is it that continually draws people to small, usually crowded places, to purchase over-priced beverages? Is it that people just love giving $5 for a cup of coffee, or is there something more? The coffee shop has become a center of influence in today's society. What can we learn from this Phenomenon? In this new teaching series from Pastor Ben, we will study the Scriptures to see how Jesus introduced an authentic spirituality and Christian experience that people gladly stood in line for. We will make our church a center of influence as we discover what God is brewing to satisfy that deep, down spiritual longing--and He won't even make us stand in line.
