Greetings!

For years, Paris has been celebrated as a premiere gay vacation destination for the LGBT community. Now, the City of Lights is being honored as the first city in Europe to be granted GayTravel Approved® status by GayTravel.com.

As GayTravel.com’s seal of excellence, GayTravel Approved is an exclusive title awarded to a select number of travel partners around the world who have proven themselves deserving of the recognition and praise of the LGBT community.

'Je Ne Sais Quoi'

Meticulous surveying revealed that nearly 9 out of 10 LGBT travelers believe it is exceedingly important for them to know a destination is GayTravel Approved when planning a visit. Paris has long been a favorite LGBT destination, and GayTravel’s Gurus and editors have experienced the art de vivre of its people and the inclusiveness of its culture first-hand. Therefore, it is our sincere privilege to bestow the title of GayTravel Approved 2018 upon the city of Paris, France.

Paris for the First, Fifth or Fiftieth Time

Gregg Kaminsky of Family Vacations has traveled extensively and is a leader in the LGBT travel industry. “Paris is even better than you imagine!”, says Gregg. “There is so much to see and do but, honestly, my favorite thing is to just wander. Get lost. Walk all day and just enjoy the unbelievable beauty of this spectacular destination. When you get tired, do like the locals do and just grab some bread and some wine and sit along the Seine or in the middle of the Jardin des Tuileries and pinch yourself that you are in Paris!”. Summer in Paris
There’s always so much to do in Paris during the summer. Whether you are there in June, July or August, there is no place like Paris for a perfect summer evening (gazing at the Eiffel Tower from The Trocadéro), or morning (think perfectly made coffee and a croissant) or afternoon (think relaxing boat ride on the Seine). Here are our top 5 recommendations of things to do and see in Paris this summer. Read More -->

Paris Je T’aime

"This is a great honor for Paris to be awarded the 1st GayTravel Approved City in Europe! It’s rewarding to be presented as a leading key destination for LGBT visitors; especially in 2018, when targeted programming is very rich, with the holding of the 10th edition of the Gay Games next August" said Nicolas Lefebvre, General Manager of the Paris Convention & Visitors Bureau. “With an ever-changing and evolving offer (hotels, tours, clubs, etc.), the capital is a key reference when it comes to hospitality. No doubt this award will strengthen the place of the capital in international itineraries and networks."
