An enabling policy environment is a prerequisite for achieving Universal Health Coverage.

The SRHR Policy Portal provides users with data on national policies, strategies, laws and guidelines in the areas of

SEXUAL HEALTH

FAMILY PLANNING

INFERTILITY

CERVICAL CANCER

STIs

VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN

as well as cross-cutting issues, including the human right to healthcare, financial protection and quality of care.

Initiated by the SRH and MCA Departments of WHO, this database targets stakeholders engaging in national policy dialogues.

The SRHR Policy Portal allows for tracking of country progress in adopting WHO recommendations on RMNCAH policies, strategies and guidelines; and enables countries to independently research, understand, adapt and adopt evidence based policies in their own settings.
