#2. Identifying Unhealthy Thoughts :(

Overgeneralizations: Sweeping, global statements based on a single event.
"I bounced a check so I am horrible with money."

Fortune Telling: I know what is going to happen.
"If I try to talk to my wife about this she will freak out."

Mind Reading: Making assumptions about the thoughts or feelings of others.
"She didn't call me because she hates me."

Black and White: All good or all bad.
"I made a typo so the article is total junk."

Emotional Reasoning: Drawing conclusions based on feelings.
"I feel anxious so something bad is about to happen."

Personalization: It's all about you.
"It's all my fault." or "This person did this thing because of me."

Catastrophizing: The worst case scenario is going to happen.
"I got a 'needs improvement' on my review, so I'm going to get fired."

Mental Filtering: Exclusively focusing on negative evidence.
"I always mess up."

Disqualifying Positives: Disregarding non-negative evidence.
"Yes, this good thing happened but it didn't count."

Rules / Shoulds & Musts: This is the only way things can be. Anything else is bad.
"A good mom must make a balanced, home-cooked meal every evening."

Name calling: Verbal abuse towards yourself.
"I didn't have time to make a home cooked meal tonight, so I am a lazy, bad mother."<sup>2</sup>

healthy thoughts :)

Rational: Thoughts based in ALL the evidence. Exceptions count.

"Just because I got a 'needs improvement' does not mean I'm about to get fired. I can't tell the future."

Growth Mindset: Imperfection is a sign of growth and development.

Effort counts. "I'm not where I want to be but I'm much better than I was. If I keep working at it I'll continue to improve."

Compassion: Having empathy for the context of actions / thoughts / feelings of yourself and others. "I'm really doing the best I can today, given the circumstances."

Loving Inner Parent: Supportive, motivating and wise inner voice.

"It's going to be okay. I love you no matter what. Here's how you can do this better next time."

Optimism: Identifying best-case scenario. "Yes, the plane could crash. And, I could also have the most amazing vacation I've ever been on, and have those memories for the rest of my life."

Grey is Good: Accepting that "Sometimes, maybe, both / and" is more accurate than extreme statements. "I didn't get invited to the wedding and maybe she doesn't feel as close to me as some of her other friends. That doesn't mean she hates me."

Flexible: Letting go of "rules" and cultivating preferences. "I prefer that the bed is made first thing in the morning, and I also understand that can't always happen."

Gratitude: Noticing and appreciating what is right and good.
