

My LARR Story ...

Ravi Dhillon – Run 5

Tell us about yourself?

My name is Ravi. I live in Upland. I was born in India and came here when I was young. I'm Sikh, a religion originated in Punjab, India. Also, I'm a committee member at the Gurdwara (Sikh Temple) in Riverside, so I'm involved in a lot of community events. The life moment for me would be crossing the finish line and celebrating with family and friends.

What inspired you to do the Skechers Performance Los Angeles Marathon?

I used to be a volunteer at the LA marathon for water stations. I saw many people and saw my friend running the marathon. By looking at them running the marathon inspired me to run the marathon which was like a challenge for myself.

What Pace Group?

I'm in pace group Super 5. All the group members are nice, friendly and encouraging. Yes, it is going to be my first marathon. But I do 10,000 steps every day as walking and running accomplishment would be doing the LA Dodgers Stadium hill area 13.1 mile run with my group Super 5, which is half marathon already.

My favorite thing about LARR?

It would be the coaches and members of the group. Also, the way they encourage and motivate everyone to reach their goals with positive attitude. Also, I have learned a lot from others group members who previously ran the marathon.

My favorite quote: "Don't stop just keep going".
