Wow...25 years you've been delivering the goods!

Did you start when you were 15 years old? S.D. Professionals' longevity and growth is not surprising as you keep good company. It's been a pleasure to work with you and the top shelf humans at SD Pros as you produce first class work with an open and collaborative spirit. From our first collaboration with Dolly Parton to music films with Duran Duran, Mad Dogs & Englishmen, Mr. Jimmy and our documentary Cosplay Universe to Lady With Fangs And A Moustache, the team at SD Pros continually delivers and engages audiences with results.

Partnerships, like relationships, do not often endure for over two decades.

S.D. PROFESSIONALS, LLC

Early in the millennium, the imagination library had a small, local program but our vision for its future was much bigger and much bolder. At the time, we were struggling with operational challenges that if left unresolved would most likely eliminate the possibility that our vision would be achieved. Thankfully, at a time when we were most in need, I forged a partnership with Jacob and his team to address our urgent needs. From that point forward we began our joint effort to grow DPIL into a large, successful international effort. He and his folks shared our passion, our commitment and our determination to do something special. Companies that can deliver a service or a product are a dime a dozen. Companies that help you fulfill a dream are ridiculously rare.

Over the years, we have grown and learned together. We teamed up to create Dolly's official website and have effectively managed it so that the site can be an important element in the preservation and perpetuation of her brand and her legacy. Yet as successful as we have been, Jacob and his team have never been complacent. They always are seeking the better way, the more efficient way, the more attractive way and the more effective way. DPIL would have never lifted off into the wild blue yonder without SD Professionals' unwavering contributions.

So Jacob, congratulations on 25 years of success. I remain eternally grateful to you and your staff and will remain one of your biggest fans in all of your future endeavors.
