eviivo

At Pricepoint, we believe great hospitality technology should feel like a helping hand, not another task on the to-do list. That belief is exactly why we're integrated with eviivo, a platform purpose-built to support small hotels, B&Bs, guesthouses, inns, and independent accommodation providers.

This integration brings together eviivo's all-in-one operational platform with Pricepoint's AI-driven dynamic pricing, giving independent operators access to smarter revenue optimization without adding complexity to their day.

Why eviivo and Pricepoint are a strong match eviivo is trusted by thousands of small hospitality businesses because it focuses on what really matters: making daily operations easier, more reliable, and less time-consuming. From reservations and channel management to payments, guest communication, and reporting, eviivo gives small teams everything they need in one place, without complexity.

Pricepoint complements this approach perfectly. Instead of asking owners or managers to become pricing experts, Pricepoint automates the entire pricing strategy. Our AI continuously monitors booking pace, demand patterns, seasonality, and local market conditions, then updates prices automatically in real time.

Together, eviivo and Pricepoint help small hospitality teams stay competitive, without adding complexity or workload.

Smarter pricing for busy owners and lean teams

Many eviivo users are owner-operators or run properties with small teams. Time is limited, and pricing often ends up being handled late at night, on spreadsheets, or not as often as it should be. With Pricepoint connected to eviivo:

- Room rates adjust automatically as demand changes
- Prices stay competitive without constant monitoring
- Manual rate updates and guesswork are removed

This allows owners and managers to focus on guests and operations, knowing pricing is taken care of in the background.

Adapting to demand without constant oversight

Demand for small accommodations can change quickly, weekends, local events, holidays, or seasonal shifts can all have a big impact. Pricepoint continuously responds to these changes by adjusting prices in real time, while eviivo ensures rates and availability stay synced across all booking channels. The result is pricing that adapts naturally to demand, without requiring daily intervention from the hotelier.

Consistency across channels, without the hassle

Keeping prices aligned across multiple OTAs and booking platforms can be one of the most frustrating tasks for independent operators. With eviivo managing distribution and Pricepoint managing pricing, rates remain consistent across channels, manual errors are reduced and last-minute changes are handled automatically

This creates a smoother booking experience for guests and more peace of mind for property owners.
