K-Tech Suspension back on top...

The Isle of man TT is the ultimate motorcycle race, testing both bike and rider like no other race in the world.

It is also the ultimate test for the motorcycle's suspension having to cope with normal road conditions at the most extreme of speeds, never to be matched in real world riding.

This is why K-Tech Suspension invest so much in The Isle of Man TT.

It is lessons learned in these real world street racing conditions at their most extreme that filters down into K-Tech's development of its road bike Razor shocks and front fork cartridge suspension kits to realise the full potential of all modern street bikes.

The 2024 Isle of Man TT proved that the continued development of our race suspension was rewarded with two victories in the ultimate race with super talented Davey Todd taking both the Superstock class title and the Senior TT class title.

His first on the Island and we couldn't be happier that we were a key part of that success for him with the perfectly performing K-Tech TRDSR race series suspension.

Our TT winning TRDS-R race specific suspension is available now to order from stock and for pre order for the 2025 race season.

The suspension that made Davey Todd a TT Champion is available to every rider.

Two wheels, one love,

Team K-Tech
