A complex Rube Goldberg-style contraption is depicted against a dark background. The device features a long, curved spring at the top, connected to a horizontal lever. A red ball is positioned on the left end of this lever. To the right, another horizontal lever is connected to a vertical track. A yellow ball is at the top of this track, and a red ball is further down. Below the main horizontal lever, a red ball sits on a small platform. This platform is connected to a vertical spring mechanism with a red cap. To the left of this spring, a blue ball is on a curved track. The entire contraption is composed of various mechanical parts, including levers, springs, and balls, all in shades of blue, red, and yellow.
