Software on CD-ROM—power tools that help you lower your Total Cost of Ownership (TCO).

- Microsoft® Internet Explorer 4 is included, as well as other software such as Microsoft Outlook™ Express and Microsoft FrontPage™, for easy access to the software and eliminating the need for Internet downloading.
- The Microsoft Internet Explorer Administration Kit lets you customize and lock down all the key features of Internet Explorer 4, including the Active Desktop™, for easy deployment in the enterprise—and it helps you to distribute Internet Explorer through your intranet, on your Web site, on CD-ROM, or on floppy disks.
- Microsoft Profile Manager lets administrators maintain all browser options centrally—even changing settings remotely. And on Microsoft Windows® 95 and Microsoft Windows NT® platforms, administrators can use the Profile Manager to manage Windows desktop settings and system policies.
- The Microsoft Internet Explorer 4 Author's Toolkit (Microsoft Internet Client SDK) is the reference guide that provides everything you need to know about building pages with Dynamic HTML, Channels, Active Desktop components, ActiveX®, Java, and Active Scripting.
- Microsoft Channel (CDF) Generator makes it easy for anyone to create an Internet Explorer Active Channel—step by step, without the need to know any programming languages. Authors can actually drag and drop their existing Web pages into the Channel Generator to make development go even faster.
- The MICROSOFT INTERNET EXPLORER RESOURCE KIT, in a complete online version, makes it easy to find all the information you need.

Valuable extras such as the Microsoft Internet Explorer 4 Author's Toolkit, Microsoft Channel Generator, and Microsoft Profile Manager—plus more—help you lower your Total Cost of Ownership.
