DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submissions filed on 29

June 2011 and 3 August 2011 have been entered.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-41 and 63-72 have been considered but are most in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

4. Claims 28, 29, 31, 33, 35-39, 63, 64, 67, 68, 69 and 72 are rejected under 35

U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Spijkers et al. (US 6,028,019).

Spijkers et al. discloses a water-proof composition comprising a liquidimpermeable breathable (water vapor permeable) cured base material, and a plurality of active particles (activated carbon) in contact with the liquid impermeable breathable cured base material, wherein the active particles inherently improve the moisture vapor transport capacity of the composition, along with imparting anti-static (see col. 5, lines 29-30), stealth, and odor absorbance properties, and wherein the active particles comprise 1-10% of the total weight of the composition (see col. 4, lines 40-47) at col. 1, line 55 to col. 5, line 49.

While Spijkers et al. does not explicitly recite the active particles imparting stealth or quick drying properties, the Examiner contends that the active particles will inherently impart such properties since the membrane of Spijkers et al. is substantially identical to the instantly claimed membrane. Specifically both teach a polymeric membrane impregnated with activated carbon particles. Since the membranes are substantially identical, the claimed properties are assumed to be inherent and the burden of proof shifts to Applicants to demonstrate otherwise. See MPEP 2112.01.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

6. Claims 30, 32, 66 and 71 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Spijkers et al. (US 6,028,019).

While Spijkers et al. does not teach an active particle loading of 25-75wt% or 30-50wt% one of ordinary skill in the art would have recognized that the loading could have been increased to provide an enhanced effect.

7. Claims 1, 3-27, 40, 41, 65 and 70 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Spijkers et al. (US 6,028,019) in view of Haggquist (US 2004/0018359 A1).

Spijkers et al. teaches the claimed water-proof breathable membrane except for the active particles having a removable encapsulate. However, Haggquist teaches a similar membrane wherein active particles are encapsulated (including using the claimed materials) to prevent premature deactivation (see paragraphs [0028]-[0033]), and one of ordinary skill in the art would have recognized that the removable encapsulate could be sued for such a purpose in the Spijkers et al. membrane. It is noted that Haggquist also teaches using zeolites as an alternate to activated carbon as well using active particles providing anti-microbial activity (see paragraph [0030]). Haggquist also teaches using multiple encapsulants at paragraph [0040].

Spijkers et al. also teaches the membrane being incorporated into varies articles including fabrics, clothing and laminates at col. 4, line 60 to col. 5, line 35.

With particular regard to claim 7, Spijkers et al. does not teach the recites polymers, but Haggquist teaches such polymers being suitable in water-resistant, vapor permeable applications (see paragraphs [0030] and [0035) and substitution of one polymeric material for another would have been within the scope of one having ordinary skill. Additionally, the polymers recited in claim 7 are well known hydrophobic materials and their use in place of the polyether ester of Spijkers et al. would have been within the scope of one having ordinary skill.

Conclusion

- 8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The von Blucher and McKenna et al. references disclose similar systems.
- 9. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Jason M. Greene whose telephone number is (571)272-1157. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday Friday (10:00 AM to 6:30 PM).
