

DECLARATION OF PAMELA STANSBURY

I, Pamela Stansbury, declare:

1. I am an Administrative Supervisor of the Cornell University Library, and specifically the Original Cataloging Unit, located at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York 14853. I am knowledgeable regarding the policies and procedures of the Library as they relate to the receipt, cataloging, and tracking of books and I have personal knowledge of the facts set forth below. I am familiar with these procedures because I have been employed by the Library since 1982, where I began in Technical Services as a Serials Assistant, then a copy cataloger in the Cataloging Unit in 1984. I have held my current position since the mid-1990s.
2. The Cornell Library holds an original copy of the paper, How to sign digital streams / Rosario Gennaro and Pankaj Rohatgi in Advances in cryptology – CRYPTO '97 : 17th annual International Cryptology Conference, Santa Barbara, California. USA, August 17-21, 1997 pp. 180-197. I have been asked for information about How to sign digital streams – specifically when this item was first made publicly available by the Cornell Library. From my review of the Library's records and my knowledge of the Library's standard procedures, How to sign digital streams was cataloged and publicly available at the Engineering Library, in its public stacks, shelved by its Library of Congress classification system number within one or two days of March 4, 1998. A date stamp of "MAR 4 1998" on an inside page of the volume indicates that it arrived at the Engineering Library on March 4, 1998 and at the point would be made available to the public.
3. My opinion is based on the date stamp on an inside page of the volume, and my knowledge of the Library's standard procedures relevant to date stamping, cataloging, and shelving items. I have not seen any indication that How to sign digital streams would have been an exception to the Library's standard practice. The Library maintains a searchable and publicly accessible catalog of its publications. Therefore, as of March 4, 1998 for How to sign digital streams any member of the public could have located this item by searching our catalog by volume title or subject matter.

I declare that all statements made herein of my knowledge are true, and that all statements made on information and belief are believed to be true, and that these statements were made with the knowledge that willful false statements and the like so made are punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, under Section 1001 of Title 18 of the United States Code.

Pamela J. Stansbury (signature)

Pamela J. Stansbury (name printed)

State of New York

County of Tompkins County

Sworn to before me this 31st day of January, 2020

Andrea Denise Smith Colon
Notary Public

