Dear Board,

Google seeks leave to file replies to PMC's patent owner preliminary responses in several related IPRs and PMC does not oppose, provided PMC may file sur-replies (which Google does not oppose). We list each PMC proceeding below with the issues for which Google seeks a reply:

- IPR2020-00719 (8,739,241): Reply to address the Apple v. Fintiv factors;
- IPR2020-00720 (8,601,528): Reply to address the Apple v. Fintiv factors;
- IPR2020-00722 (7,747,217): Reply to address the Apple v. Fintiv factors, PMC's swearing behind arguments, and PMC's claim construction argument relating to the "[coordinating / coordinate / coordinated / combining] . . . based on" claim features;
- IPR2020-00723 (7,747,217): Reply to address the Apple v. Fintiv factors, PMC's swearing behind arguments, and PMC's claim construction argument relating to the "[coordinating / coordinate / coordinated / combining] . . . based on" claim features; and
- IPR2020-00724 (7,769,344): Reply to address the Apple v. Fintiv factors.

To the extent that a Board call is necessary to address this issue, the parties are available from 10am - Noon ET on July 29 and July 30.

Regards,
Dan
